Built for the demands of denim production: Cleaner processes and smarter finishing.

In denim manufacturing, temporary stitching plays a critical role—but removing those stitches adds time, cost, and risk of damage.

Coats Aquamelt provides a smarter alternative: a water-soluble thread that holds components securely during sewing and disappears during washing, eliminating the need for manual removal. Perfect for processes where efficiency and garment appearance are critical.

Coats Aquamelt changes the game

- Prevents fabric stress, tearing, and needle marks
- Preserves seam quality and garment integrity throughout processing
- Increases productivity while reducing labor and rework
- Maximizes efficiency in high-volume manufacturing

Denim applications

Ideal for waistband assembly, pocket positioning, side seams, pleats, and handling complex or stretch denim fabrics.

Optimize your denim washing process with Aquamelt

- No need to remove temporary seams before washing
- No risk of marks, stains, or leftover threads
- Cleaner garments straight out of the wash
